The Touchstone Centre

New residential community for young Deaf adults

Welcome to 'The Touchstone Centre,' a new care home for young Deaf adults situated in St Joseph's House. Touchstone offers countless opportunities for self expression and self development in a caring, supported environment.

'This is an exciting new chapter at St Joseph's House,' says director of care Geraldine Gallagher. 'We are expanding our services to address this recognised and growing area of need, with a new wing dedicated to enabling young Deaf people to rediscover their independence, to connect with a community and to embrace all the vibrant richness life has to offer.'

For well over forty years, St Joseph's has provided the highest standards of residential care for Deaf adults from throughout Ireland. This wealth of experience has now been refined to meet the care needs of vulnerable young Deaf adults. The centre's trained and experienced staff work closely with families to welcome young Deaf adults, providing supported independence.

The lifestyle in The Touchstone Centre is easy-going, relaxed and pleasant.

Nestled in a quiet, green corner on Brewery Road, Stillorgan, the centre is only a short walk from Sandyford Luas station facilitating quick and easy access to Dublin city centre.

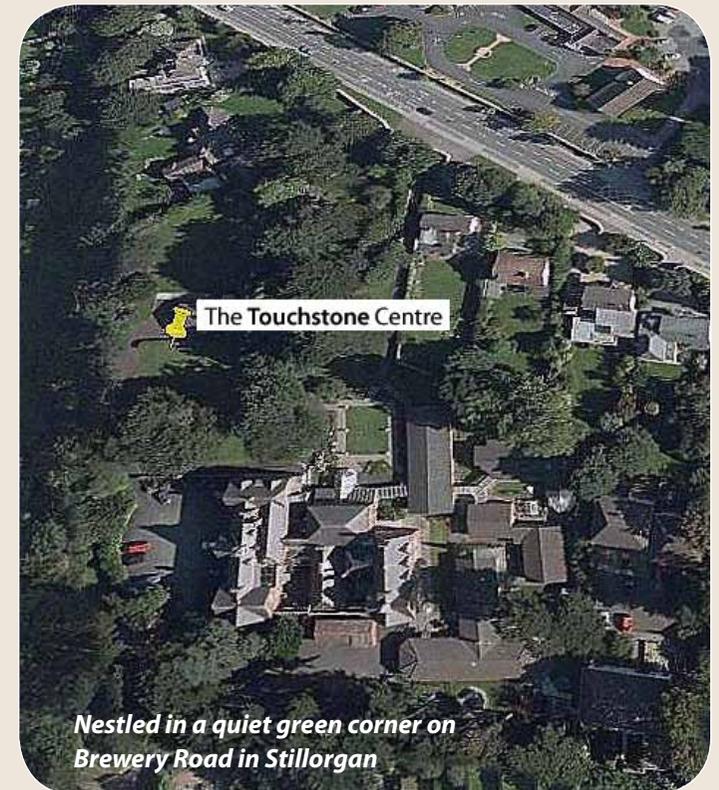

The centre employs a skilled management team, and care assistants as well as a full time activities coordinator and all ancillary staff. Care staff are on duty 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and are all capable of communicating through ISL.

Of course, moving into a new residential community is a big change, so Touchstone offers flexible transition arrangements such as three-day, five-day or full seven- day stay. We also encourage residents to maintain their social and family life, creating a healthy balance with our support.
